Word Play

When I was a child, hundreds and hundreds of years ago, there were just a handful of comics and magazines (Little Dot was always my favorite), some terrific TV shows (couldn't get enough of "Leave it to Beaver"), movies (I wanted to be Mary Poppins) and of course, lots and lots of books (Dr. Seuss taught me how to read). Growing up in a "tiny" city called, New York, we were lucky to have seven channels on TV. Most towns had even less!

When I think about what we have today, it boggles my mind! There is all of the above plus, cable TV, video games, computers and the Internet. So much to do and only 24 hours in a day! You have school, playdates, sports, birthday parties, skating lessons, dance class and more and more and more!

Relax! Take a break! You're a kid! Let your parents deal with the nutty pace of the real world! Grab a snack and settle down with a good magazine! Any particular one come to mind?

In this issue you'll meet a wacky group of clowns with a mission to save the world's rubber chicken population from extinction. Herman and Katnip go back in history and relive the Constitutional Convention. Michael Fain, an eleven-year-old boy, will tell you what it was like to make the new movie, Baby Huey's Great Easter Adventure, and Bouchon the pig travels all the way from France (that's in Europe) to tickle your funny bone.

I loved getting all of your letters about our first issue! Keep 'em coming!

THE LIMERICK MACHINE

A limerick is a special kind of five-lined poem. The last word of a limerick's first, second and fifth lines rhyme with each other. And, the last word of a limerick's third and fourth lines rhyme with each other. Here's a limerick:

There once was a baby named Huey
When asked to eat fruit, he'd say "phooey."
But a pizza, he'd eat,
Without missing a beat,
Unless the crust was quite a bit chewy.

We made up a Limerick Machine. Just mix and match the lines below, taking one line from column "A", a second from column "B", and so on. You can make up lots of limericks using the Limerick Machine—and try making up some of your own, too.

Long ago, in a land called Garoo,	Lived a talented young kangaroo,	He could make a snowball	In winter or fall	And he always wore only one shoe.
At 32 Drake Avenue,	Lived an artichoke named Peek-a-Boo.	He could outdance them all	Perched atop a high wall	And he ended up catching the flu.
In a far away land called Peru,	Lived a cowboy named Tex Buckaroo.	He had a brief brawl	In South Montreal	And his tongue turned a bright color blue.
In a place called South Timbucktoo,	Lived a graceful and strong caribou.	He raced against Paul	In lower Nepal	Then he stepped in a bucket of glue.
Among a sailing ship's crew,	Lived my great second cousin named Lou.	He blew a birdcall	'neath a cold waterfall	And he danced in a bright pink tutu.
In a shack made from light bamboo,	Lived a wrestling gator named Stu.	He played great basketball	With his great Uncle Saul	And he went home and ate a hot stew.

Limericks and drawings by Edward Lear

There was an old man with a beard,
Who said, "It's just as I feared!"
Two owls and a hen,
Four larks and a wren,
Have all built their nests in my beard.

There was a young lady whose nose,
Was so long that it reached to her toes;
So she hired an old lady,
Whose conduct was steady,
To carry that wonderful nose.

There was an old man who said, "Hush!"
"I perceive a young bird in this bush!"
When they said—"Is it small?"
He replied—"Not at all!"
"It is four times as big as the bush!"

Making Baby Huey's Great Easter Adventure

Harvey Entertainment, the company that publishes this magazine, is perhaps best known for its Casper and Richie Rich films which have been among the most popular kids' movies ever made. Now, it has completed its first motion picture starring Baby Huey, the wonderful, pot-bellied duck who can talk, is super strong and kind of clumsy. Baby Huey's Great Easter Adventure, which will be released in March by Columbia Tri-Star Video, is a musical comedy, which means there are songs in it and it's funny. After you see it, you'll be "Doin' the Duck Dance," and you'll be kind of sad thinking of Huey's "I Don't Belong Anywhere," but happy again when the whole town of Bitsville tells him in song, "You Belong With Us." A lot of people think Baby Huey is one of the sweetest and funniest cartoon characters ever created. Now you'll see him in live action.

by Michael Fain (age 11)

Do you know how many people it takes to make a movie? Well, when you or your folks make home movies, you've got the person with the camera filming and maybe three or four friends or family and the pet dog who are the cast. Well, for Baby Huey's Great Easter Adventure, more than 400 people worked on the movie. Some movies have thousands of people working for them—for example, one like Titanic. In Baby Huey there were nearly 50 actors and hundreds of extras—people who are in crowds or walking in the street or, at a ball game. Nearly 100 people directed and filmed the movie, made the costumes, did the actors' makeup and made sure the lights were just right, so you see everything perfectly. And, of course, someone (the screenwriters) had to write the script in the first place, and someone (casting directors) had to help the director and producer pick the right actors for the right roles.

After the movie was filmed, there were musicians, sound effects people and others who made the final picture look and sound really good. You'd be surprised how much music and sound effects help you enjoy a movie. They can make a movie funnier or more exciting or sometimes sadder.

Baby Huey's Great Easter Adventure was filmed in Southern California, mostly in towns called Monrovia and Simi Valley. It was made in August, and it was so hot that someone actually broke an egg on the sidewalk one day—and it fried!

But making Baby Huey was fun. That's what the cast and crew told me. Apparently, there was a lot of laughing all the time. Maybe it was because Baby Huey is such a happy guy himself, it rubbed off on everybody.

MAUREEN MCCORMICK, BEST KNOWN FOR HER ROLE AS MARSHA IN TV'S THE BRADY BUNCH, PLAYS NICK'S MOM IN THE FILM. HERE, SHE AND DENNY DILLON (CRABBY MOM) ARE TALKING TO THE DIRECTOR, STEPHEN FURST.

Here are just a few of the titles and jobs of people who make a movie:

Producer: The person in charge. The one who puts it all together. He's always yelling about saving money and getting things done on time. He can get pretty grouchy when things cost too much or the filming takes longer than expected.

Director: He tells the actors what to do, how to say things and how to look and move. There are assistant directors who work with the director to see that actors, extras—just about everyone—is at the right place at the right time.

Director of Photography: He sees to it that the movie looks great on film. He tells the cameramen how they should film a scene.

Production Designer: She makes sure

MICHAEL ANGARANO AND I BECOME CLOSE FRIENDS IN THE MOVIE. IN MICHAEL'S NEXT MOVIE, FORTY VIOLINS, HE CO-STARS WITH MERYL STREEP.

the background of a movie—a house, a room, a garden, whatever, looks just like the screenwriter and director want it to look.

Script Supervisor: He or she helps the director make sure that the actors say and do the right things at the right time. The script supervisor keeps careful records so that the movie doesn't get jumbled.

Composer: He writes the score—the music—that makes a movie change moods.

Choreographer: If you have dancing in a movie, like Baby Huey's Great Easter Adventure, the choreographer plans and creates the dances and sees that they're done just right.

Costume Designer: This person designs and chooses the clothes the actors wear.

Gaffer: That's a funny name for the person who makes sure the lighting is just right for the Director of Photography.

Prop Master: You know all the stuff—baseball bats or dishes or stuffed birds—everything you see on the screen? This guy takes care of getting them and putting them where they belong in each scene.

These are only a few of the many people who make a movie. Making a film is a team effort. If everybody does their job right, it can be a good film. It's kind of like a baseball team or maybe like your mom or dad's business.*

HERE I SAVE BAD GUY HARVEY KORMAN (PROFESSOR VON KLUPP) FROM THE BOTTOM OF "DEAD MAN'S GULCH."

MY PALS AND I "DUCK DANCE." IT'S ONE OF THE SONGS WRITTEN FOR THE FILM BY FAMOUS AUSTRALIAN/NEW ZEALAND ROCK STAR JON STEVENS.

ART GALLERY

I am Pierre-Auguste Renoir (Ray-new-ar') and I was an artist in the 1800s in France. Without boasting, I was a major influence in developing the style of art known as Impressionism. That's where we painters took our subjects outdoors. We painted in and about nature, using natural color and light, which changed the look of painting forever. The way the sunlight shone off a child's hair or blustery trees in the wind was very important to the look of a painting. Some other famous Impressionist painters were Monet, Cezanne and Pissarro, but let them get their own page! Today, my paintings are very valuable and sell at art auctions for millions of dollars. Some of my very favorite subjects were children—here are a few I particularly like:

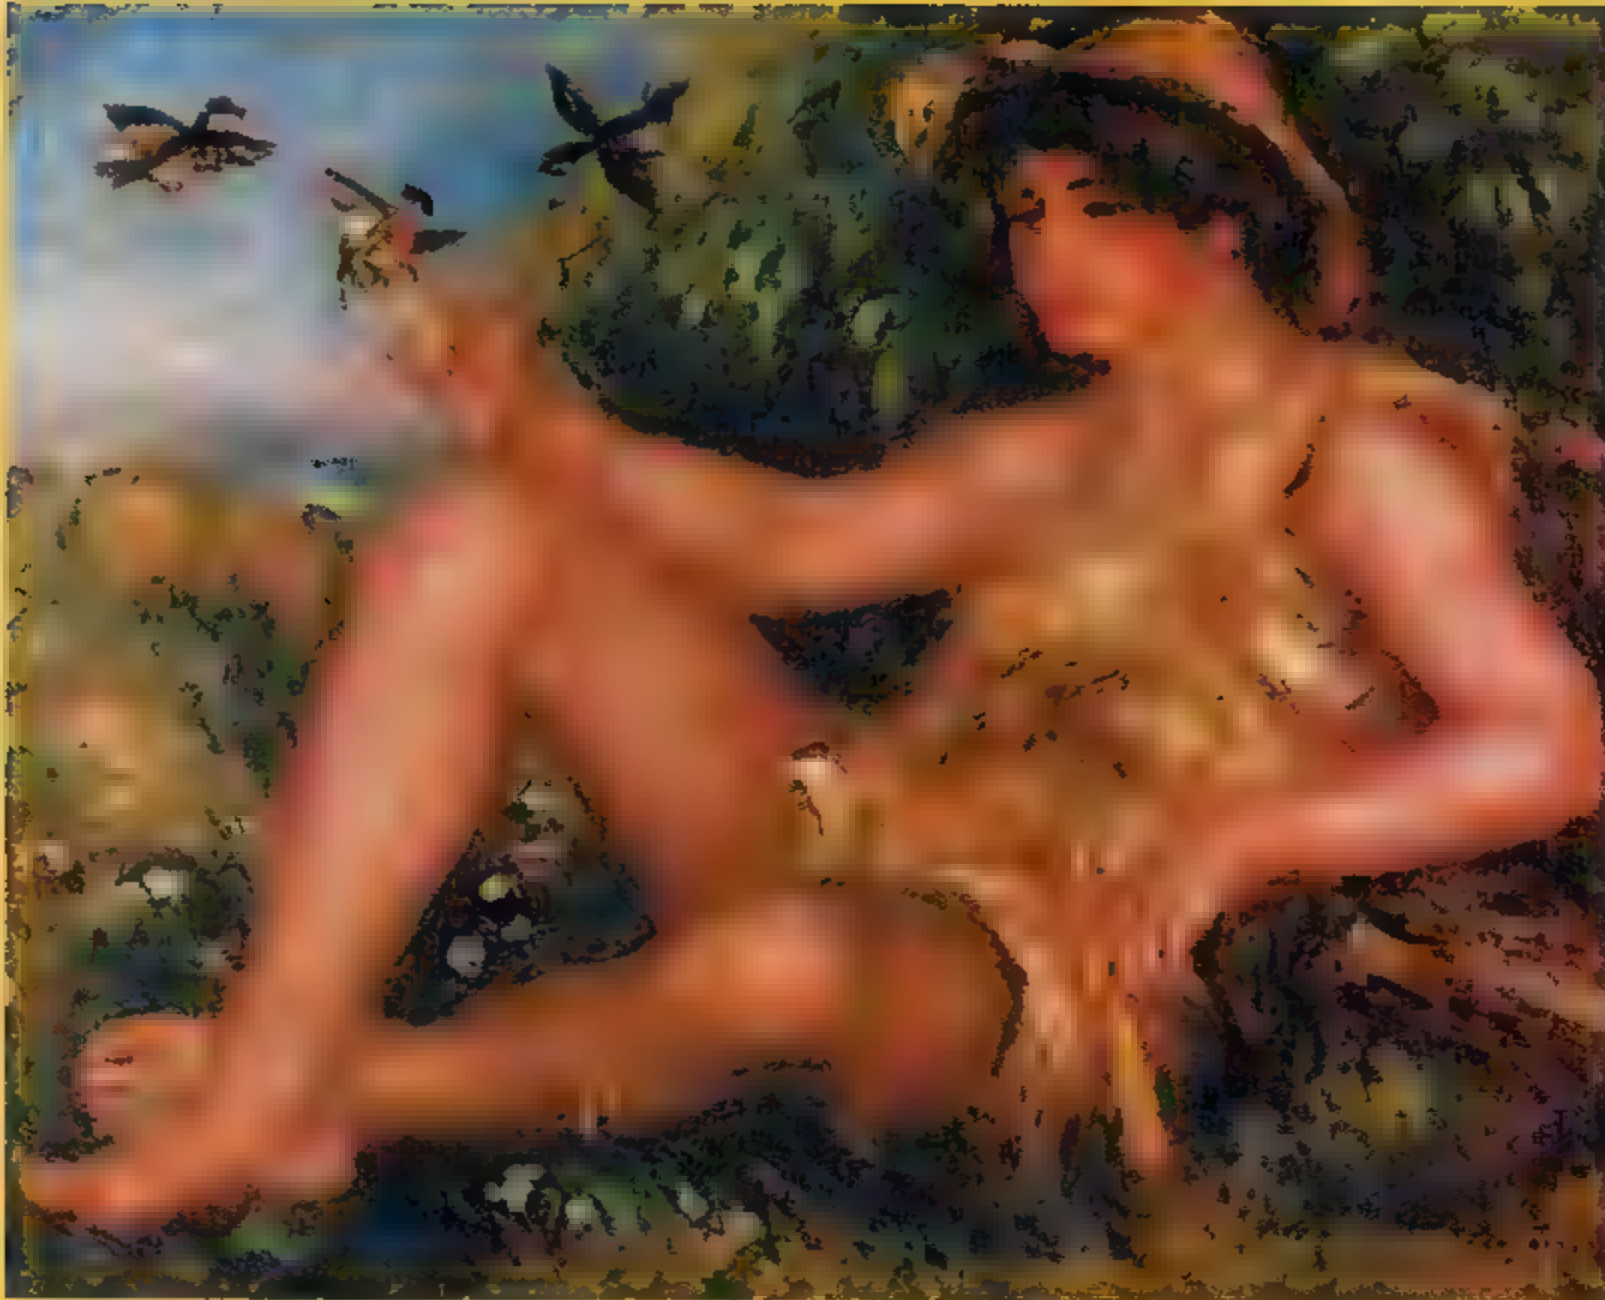

Lady with a Parasol

I remember painting this one—that kid wouldn't sit still for a minute! I used very broad strokes, which gave an impression of movement.

The sun glimmered across the landscape, making the grass look yellow. That's the way I saw it, so that's the way I painted it.

A Shepherd Boy is one of my most popular works. I liked this one because the boy looks so peaceful. He was resting against a fallen log after a hard morning of watching over a herd of sheep. He had a golden flute he would play, summoning the birds to dance around him.

With In the Meadow I tried to show the influence of the early spring months by using darker colors where the girls are partially shaded, opening up to a brightly lit field in the background.

Can you paint your own Impressionist painting? You don't have to live out in the country—take a pad and some crayons or paints and sit by your window. Draw what you see and how it is affected by nature. Make sure you notice everything around your subject. How the sunlight (or moonlight) hit it; how the air makes it dance or stand perfectly still. You can try squinting when you look at what you're painting. This can make the image move and give you a more dramatic result.

The Forest Has Eyes by Bev Doolittle

Selected poems by Elise MacLay

This is called camouflage art.
There are pictures within the pictures.

Can you find the animals and faces within the paintings?

Play a game with your friends and family!

See who can find them first!

The Forest Has Eyes

They lived on this land and loved it
A thousand years before Columbus discovered it.
We call them Native Americans.
They call themselves The People
They were scattered like leaves
Where they walked softly, cities roar.
But their spirits remain.
We can never be alone.
Someone who loved this land
Watches over it.

Can you see the faces in the forest watching you?

Season of the Eagle

It is early spring.
The people are getting ready to move to their summer home.
Fifteen scouts ride ahead to show the way,
To blaze a trail
Day after day
Fifteen scouts ride together.
Day after day.
But suddenly one day when they ride beside
A crystal-clear lake
There seem to be more scouts riding with them.

How can this be?

How many scouts do you see?

And can you guess why the name of this place is Snow Eagle Pass?

Calling the Buffalo

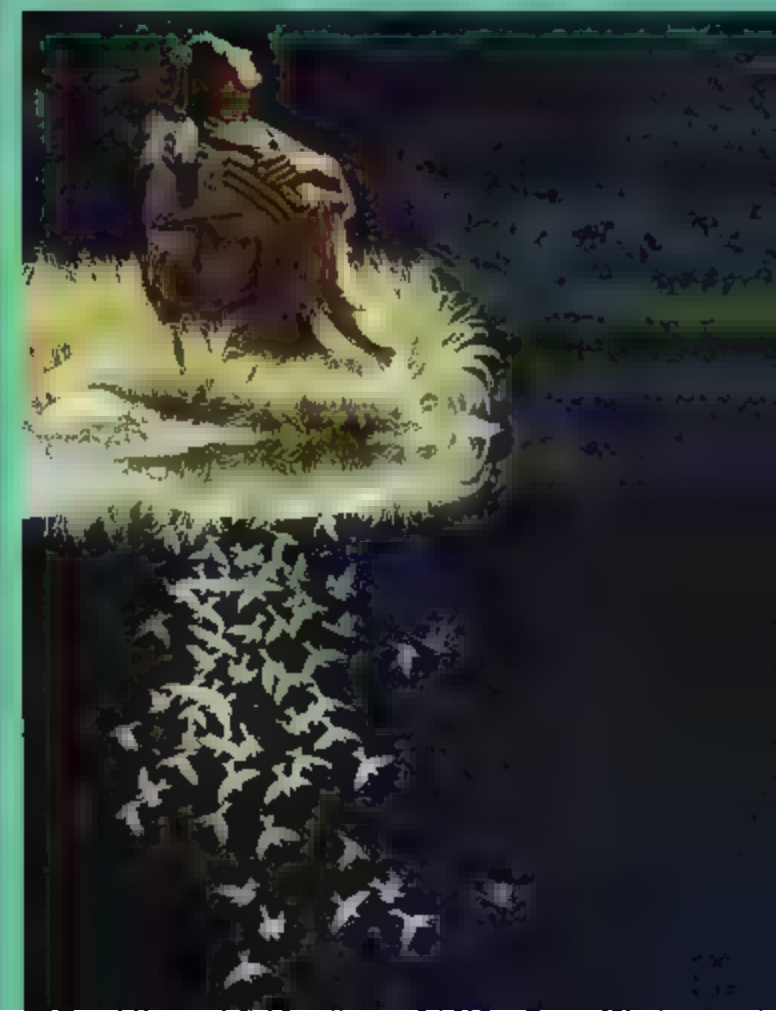

Hoka Hey!
 Follow me
 I am calling the buffalo.
 I know the sacred way
 To sound the horn
 I know the secret words to say
 Tomorrow there will be
 Meat for old and feeble people with no sons,
 Food for women with little children and no man

The buffalo hear. Their spirits are near. Can you find them?

Let My Spirit Soar

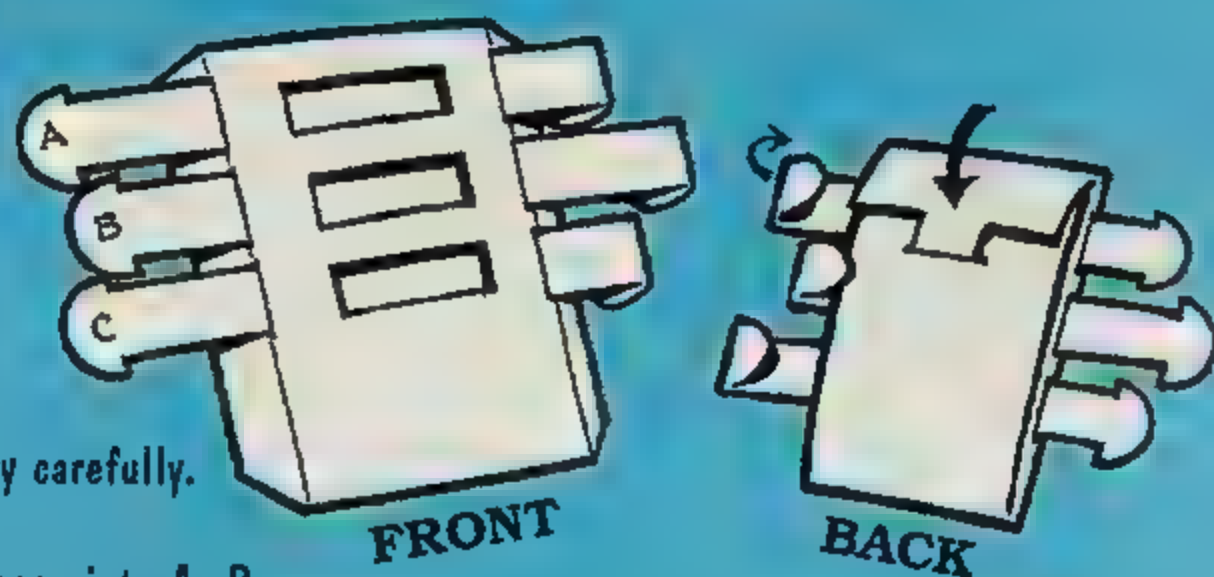

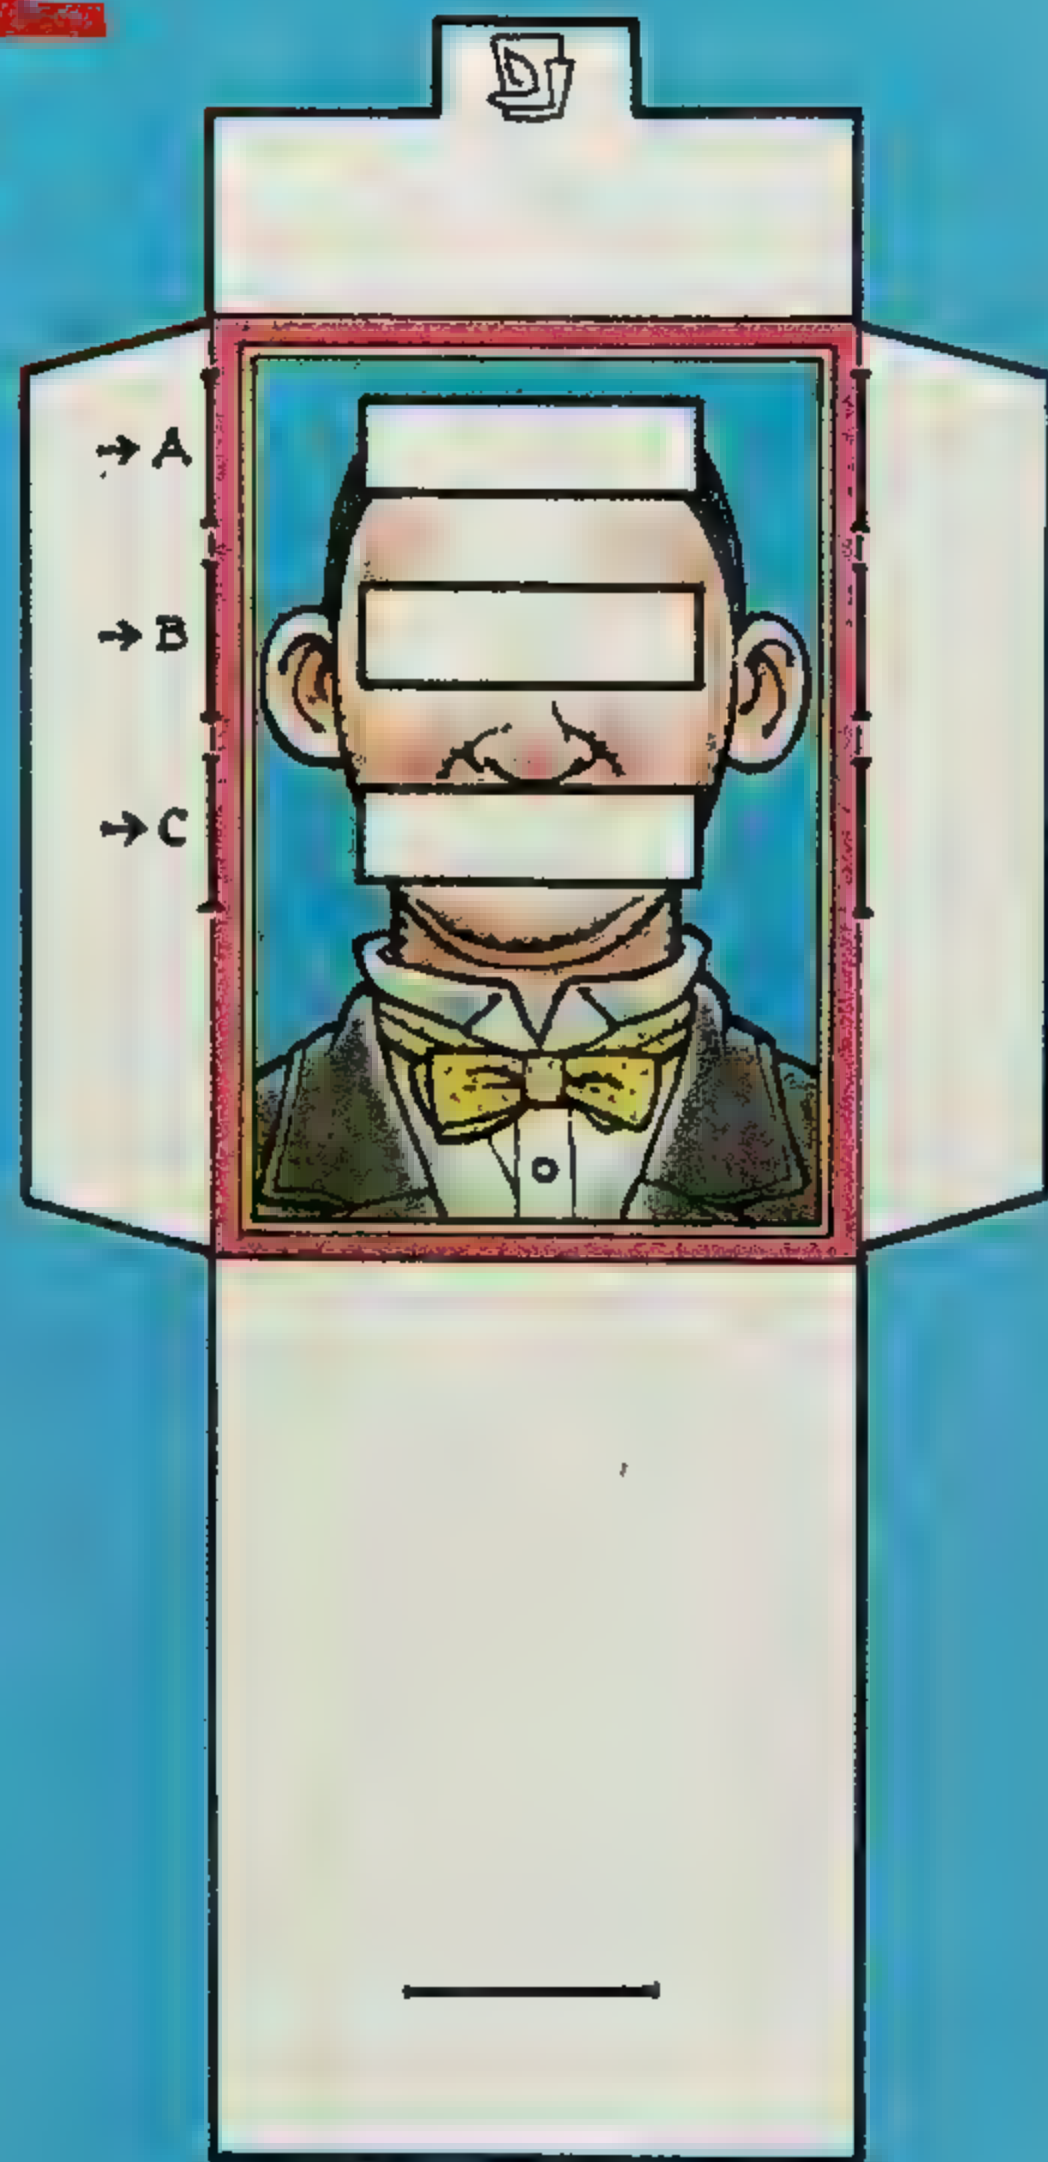

My thoughts fly up like birds in the sky.
 I am free, I can fly.
 I go everywhere. I see everything:
 Towering mountain ranges
 And a tiny flower growing in the desert
 I see cities and highways and a fallen tree
 I see a grandmother telling a story to a child
 I sit quietly
 But my thoughts fly up like birds in the sky.
 Only I know where they go.

When you sit quietly, where do your thoughts go?
 What do you see?

FUNNY-FACE MACHINE

1. Cut out the hair, eyes and mouth, watching the lines very carefully.
2. Cut out the funny-face machine, carefully, as well.
3. Slide the tabs through the slots in the F.F. machine (A goes into A, B goes into B, C goes into C).
4. Move them back and fourth and make CRAAAAAAAZY faces.

Hey, Kids!

Turn this over and make

Grab your scissors and follow these four easy steps...

- 1) Carefully cut out each square.
- 2) Lay them, in order, one on top of the other.

Baby Huey's Dyectionary

It's always great to learn about strange and interesting places. For example, rain forests. They're forests where it rains at least 100 inches a year—that's more than eight feet of water. In a rain forest the trees and plants grow tall and thick and the trees are like an umbrella over the floor of the forest and the animals. Rain forests are important because all those green trees and plants create a lot of oxygen which makes the earth's air cleaner and helps things grow everywhere. They're kind of like nature's way of keeping our air clean and healthy, which is one reason why people who care about the environment want to protect the rain forests from others who want to chop down the trees. There are also a lot of funny, but swell, animals that live in the rain forest. Here are a few. Get a load of their names not to mention their noses.

The armadillo is nocturnal—that means he sleeps during the day and is up all night. He is covered with bony plates, so that when attacked, he can roll up into a ball and protect himself with his "shell."

The peccary comes in two different varieties (not as many as ice cream, but pretty good for an animal). One type is black with white cheeks, but the most common peccary is black with a white collar. They are both large and kind of like pigs.

The tapir is a funny looking animal related to the horse and rhinoceros families. (How did that happen?) They, too, are nocturnal. I can't help but wonder about the wild parties these guys are all having in the wee hours of the morning!

The anteater is a mammal that eats mostly—you guessed it, ants! He also likes termites but, I guess, anteater sounded better. They have very large noses and long, sticky tongues that are like long whips that lash out and scoop up bugs.

Why don't you draw your own rain forest animal? Combine the nose from one, the skin from another and the ears from a third! I'm sure that will be one wild looking dude!

Tall Tales

I stack my tot tower as high as it can go, because that way I get the best story. And each time I knock the blocks down, I build them up again and tell a whole new story. This is called A Building of Many Stories because that's what it is. You can make many, many stories. For all ages, eeBoo, $20, (to order, call Design Solutions, (203) 966-3116)

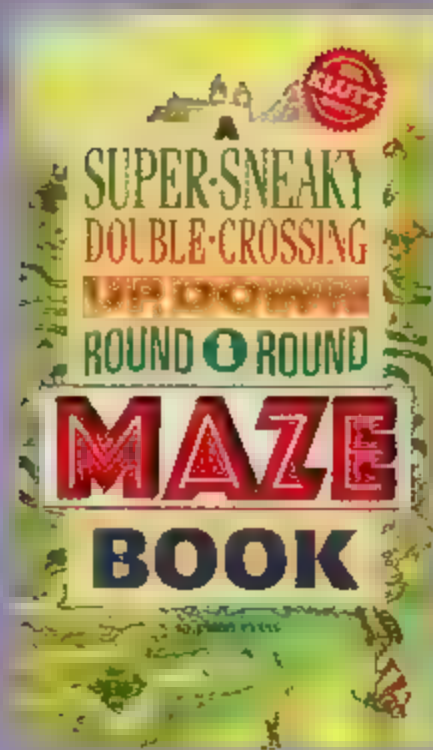

—Joey M., 6 years old
Southern Pines, NC

The Long and the Short of It

Even though I have seen other versions of Pinocchio, I really liked this one because it's a play, which I never get to go and see. And although it is a video of a play, the cameraman seems to be right in the action, so you're not just looking at a stage all the time. The costumes and sets are really colorful and the songs and dancing are very cool. I don't think I have ever seen anything like this tape, which is one of the things I like about it. For ages 7 and up, Globalstage, call (888) 324-5623, for more information, $27 aMAZing!

Chicago, IL

Did you ever try to get to the bottom of a bowl of spaghetti by following one strand? Or can you imagine walking through the sewers of Paris, trying to find the fresh air on the other side? A Super-Sneaky, Double-Crossing, Up, Down, Round & Round Maze Book lets you do all that and more. There are tons of solutions to these way-cool mazes and because you use your finger to trace your way through, you can do them over and over again. 6 years and up. Klutz Press, $12.95

—Lily E., 12 years old
Brooklyn, NY

Nick's Picks

This PlayStation game, Running Wild, is a great racing game where you take the place of an animal in lots of different courses, like frozen rivers, the desert and city sewers. There are six different animals and they all race each other. The game is for all ages (well, not babies, of course) and has great graphics. Overall, I rate it a ten out of ten.

Collage Days

If you like to cut and rip and glue and paste, you'll love this book. Eric Carle [the artist who wrote and illustrated such fun books as The Very Hungry Caterpillar and Papa, Please Get the Moon for Me] teaches how to make all kinds of collages in his book, You Can Make a Collage. It comes with tips and 72 pieces of paper to make your stuff with. 6 years and up, Klutz Press, $19.95

Look, Mom, I made it Myself!

Hat Eldred is a 12-year-old girl who lives in London, England with her "mum," dad and big brother. She enjoys rounders (a game similar to baseball), but what she really loves to do is make things out of clay. She started sculpting when she was very young and has recently "given birth" to a whole family of dinosaurs. Hat not only conceives these creatures, she creates their environments as well. It's not rare to open her fridge and find one sipping a can of soda or walk out into the garden and find a few sunbathing on a rock.

"This is the Winkysaurus family. The mother and father are called Stoneybob and Princess, the older children are Mattbob, Looseleaf, Billy, Pebble, Bella and the baby twins are Dribble and Plum. There is also a Grandad. Near their home there are a lot of plants and flowers which they like, but for their holiday they went to the seaside."

Little Lotta's Hospital Visit

HOSPITAL! It might sound scary, but remember you go there to feel better.

As you leave for the hospital take along a few things from home. Bring your pajamas, a favorite toy or anything that makes you feel more comfortable.

After your mom or dad fill out some papers you will get a bracelet that you must wear at all times. This tells everyone who you are. Next you will go to your room. You may be the only one in there, or you may share it with some other kids. A nurse will come by to help you into bed and ask some questions about why you are at the hospital. They also like to know what TV shows you watch and what games and foods you enjoy. The nurse will do an exam just like your regular doctor. While there, you might meet other doctors and nurses, who are also there to help you. So you see, when you are at the hospital, you are never alone—there is someone watching over you day and night.

Once you have settled in, tests your doctor has ordered will need to be done. A blood test may be necessary, to help the doctor learn more about your illness.

This is done by either a small prick to your finger, or by a tiny needle inserted into your arm. You will feel a pinch, but it will not hurt for very long. It's okay to cry or yell, but most importantly, try to stay still and listen to what the nurse or doctor is telling you.

They know how to make this as easy as possible. Sometimes they have to place a small needle with a tube attached into your arm called an IV. This is a way for you to take your medicine or feed you if you are too sleepy to do so. Isn't that cool? You don't even have to open your mouth to eat!

Another test you might need is an x-ray. An x-ray is a very big machine that takes pictures of the inside of your body. You won't feel a thing and it's pretty neat to see what you look like in there! When you feel better, you can walk around the halls and play in the playroom. You might even get some goosey green Jello for lunch!

Remember, the hospital is filled with friendly people who want to help you feel better fast!

YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'RE TALKING ABOUT!

I DON'T KNOW? YOU DON'T KNOW!

I'M READY TO WALK OUT OF HERE!

GOOD! I'LL OPEN THE DOOR FOR YOU!

THE CONSTITUTION IS THE BASIC PRINCIPLES AND LAWS OF OUR NATION.

THE WORD MOUSE CAN BE TRACED TO THE WORD "MUSKA"—DERIVED FROM THE WORDS "TO STEAL" CATS LIKE TO BE VERY CLEAN, JUST LIKE HUMANS.

THE DELEGATES FACED HUGE PROBLEMS IN CREATING THE RULES OF GOVERNMENT FOR THEIR NEW NATION. WHILE THIS TOOK PLACE, THE TWO SERVANTS, HERMAN AND KATNIP, RUSHED ABOUT SERVING THE FAMOUS DELEGATES...

I SAY A STRONG CENTRAL GOVERNMENT IS NOT A GOOD IDEA!

WHERE IS MY PIPE?

WHERE'S A DICTIONARY?

I BELIEVE A PRESIDENT SHOULD ONLY SERVE ONE TERM!

WATER, PLEASE.

DID SOMEONE SEE MY HAT?

WILL SOMEONE BRING ME MY BOOTS?

AND I SUPPOSE TWO PRESIDENTS?

TWO HOUSES OF LEGISLATURE? THAT WOULD MEAN TWO GROUPS OF PEOPLE WHO MAKE THE LAWS?

THE PEOPLE WILL TIRE OF TOO MUCH DEMOCRACY, CAMELTON.

THEY WILL NOT, CATISON.

--3 PARTS.

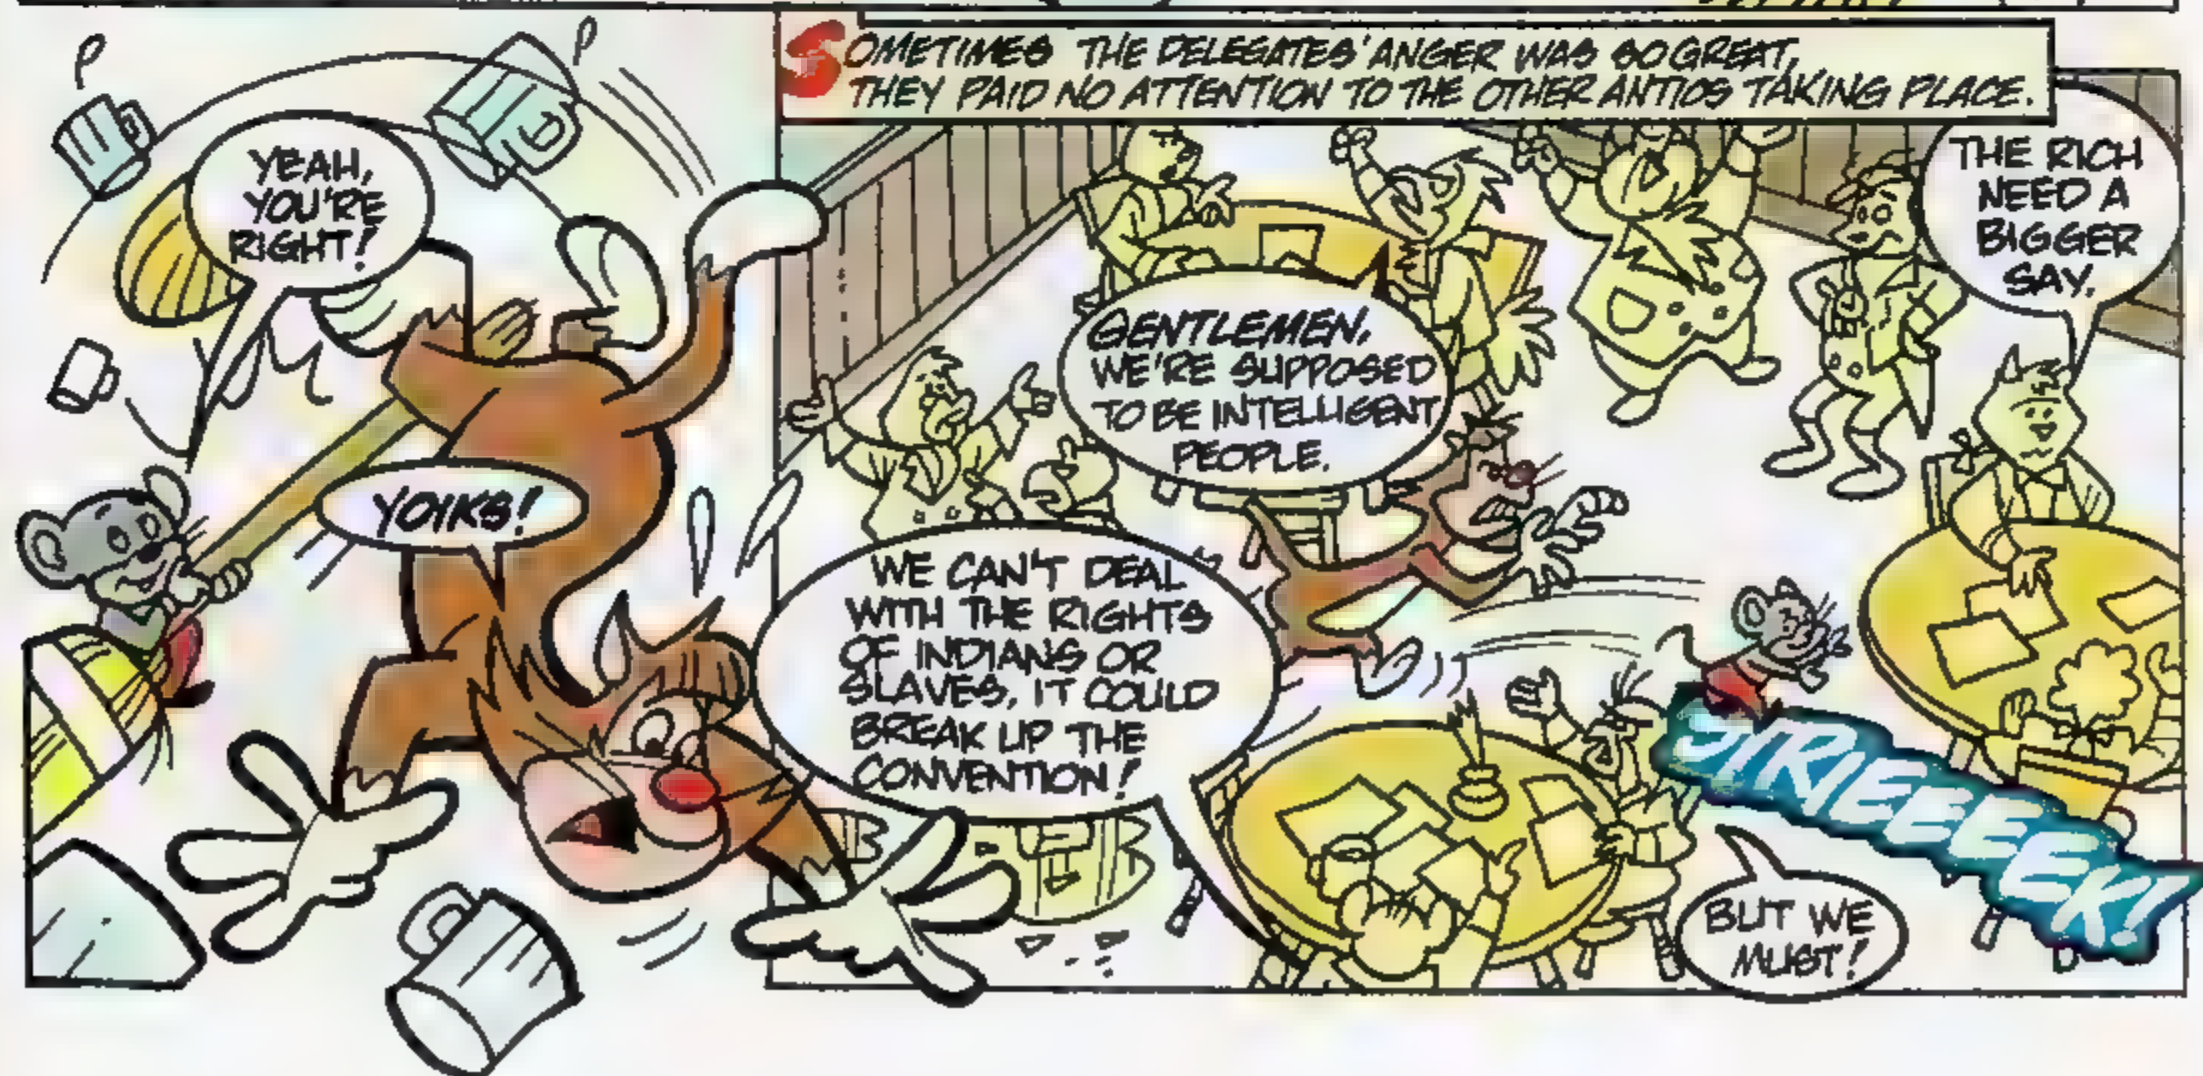

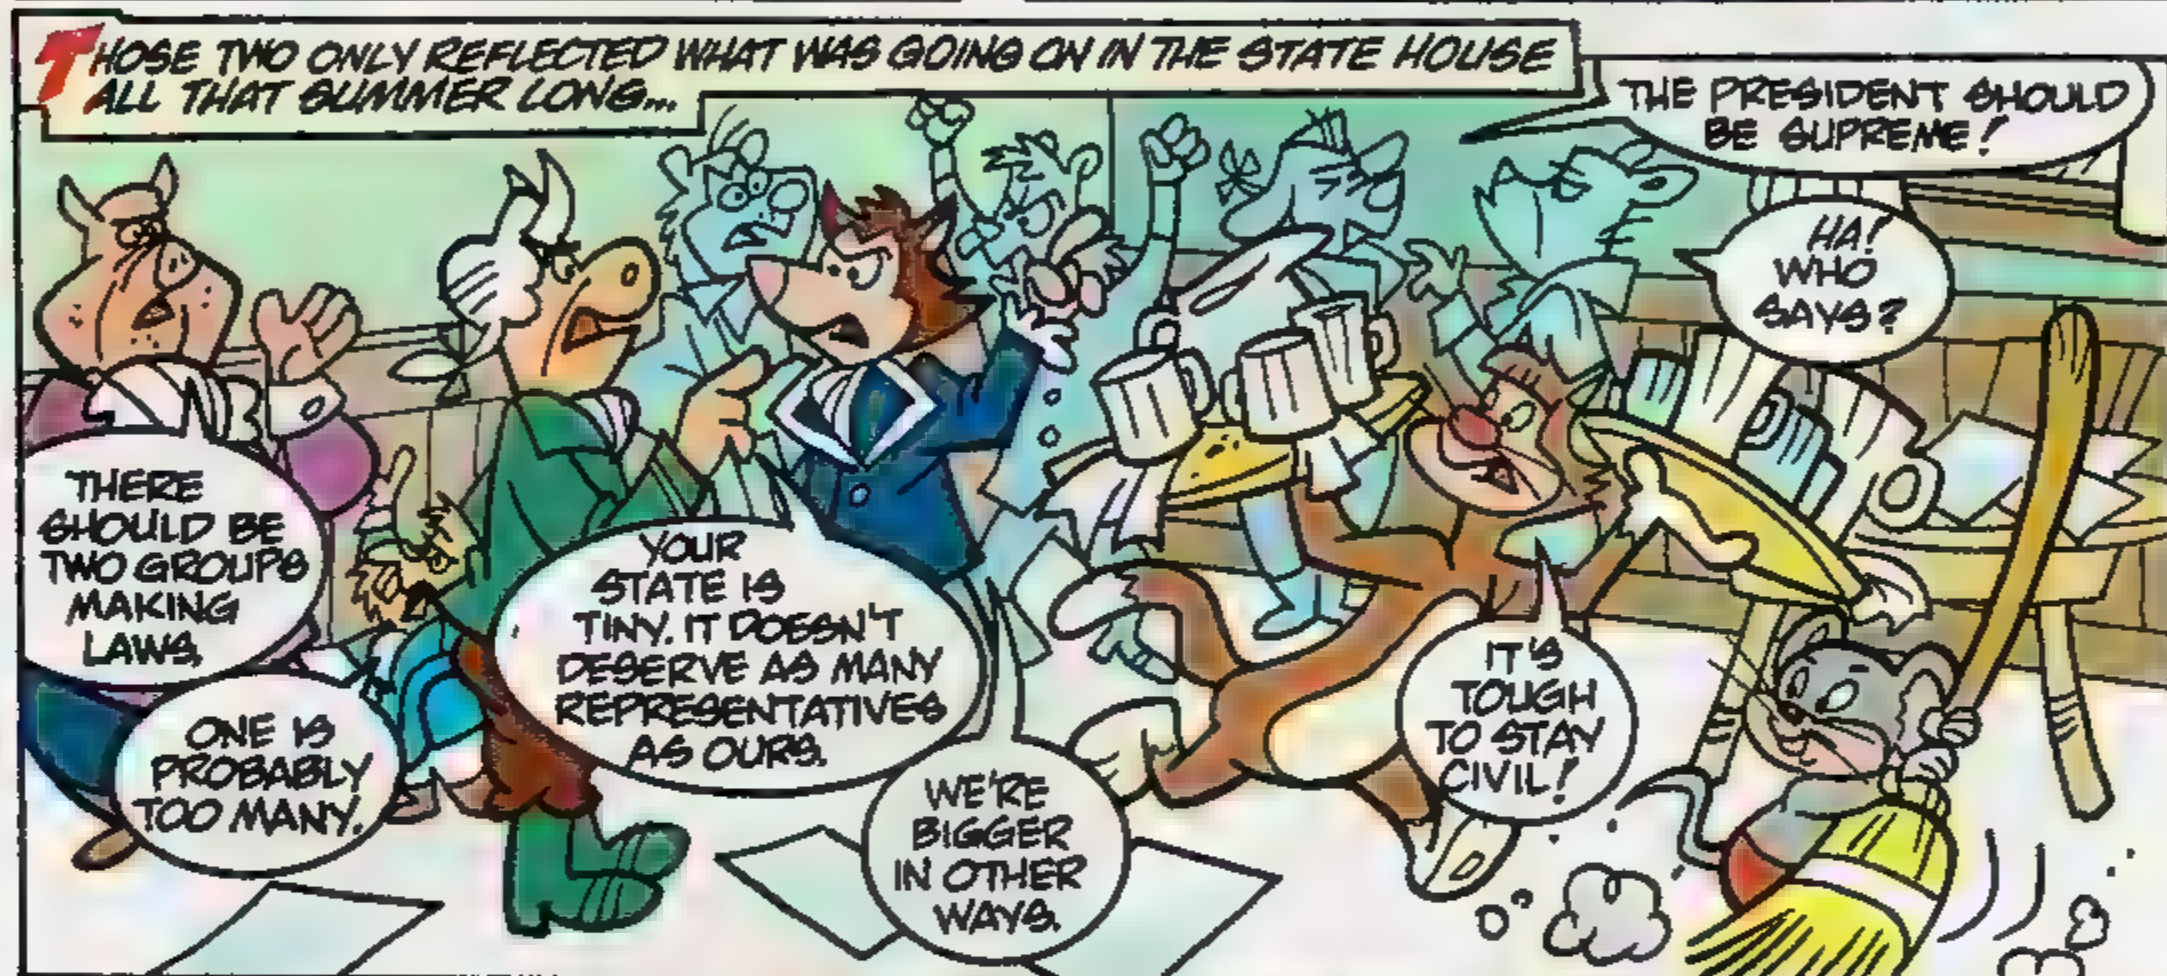

HHMM! I WAS SURE THERE WAS A PIECE OF CHEESE THERE!

WE SIMPLY MUST BE WISE AS TO THE KIND OF DEMOCRACY WE CREATE.

PERHAPS A GOVERNMENT DIVIDED INTO--

THERE WAS A PIECE OF CHEESE, THERE, CATISON.

AND THEY CAN CLEAN THEMSELVES, TOO! THEIR TONGUES MIGHT FEEL SMOOTH WHEN THEY LICK YOU. BUT REALLY THEY ARE ROUGH LIKE SANDPAPER.

THERE WERE ALMOST 600 VOTES TAKEN THAT SUMMER BEFORE ANY FINAL RESOLUTION TOOK PLACE...

AND, OF COURSE, DESPITE ALL THE MANY GREAT THINGS ABOUT THESE MEN, THEY COULD NOT AGREE ON THINGS WE TAKE FOR GRANTED TODAY...

WE MUST SAVE THE DISCUSSION OF SLAVERY FOR ANOTHER TIME!

NEXT SOME DELEGATE WILL WANT TO GIVE THE VOTE TO THE INSANE!

WE CANNOT DISCUSS EVERY ISSUE OF OUR TIMES, IT WILL DESTROY US!

GIVE WOMEN THE RIGHT TO VOTE? NOT THIS CONVENTION!

DOES HE ONLY KNOW HOW TO SAY, "NO"?

I DON'T KNOW!

ANOTHER VOTE GOING DOWN!

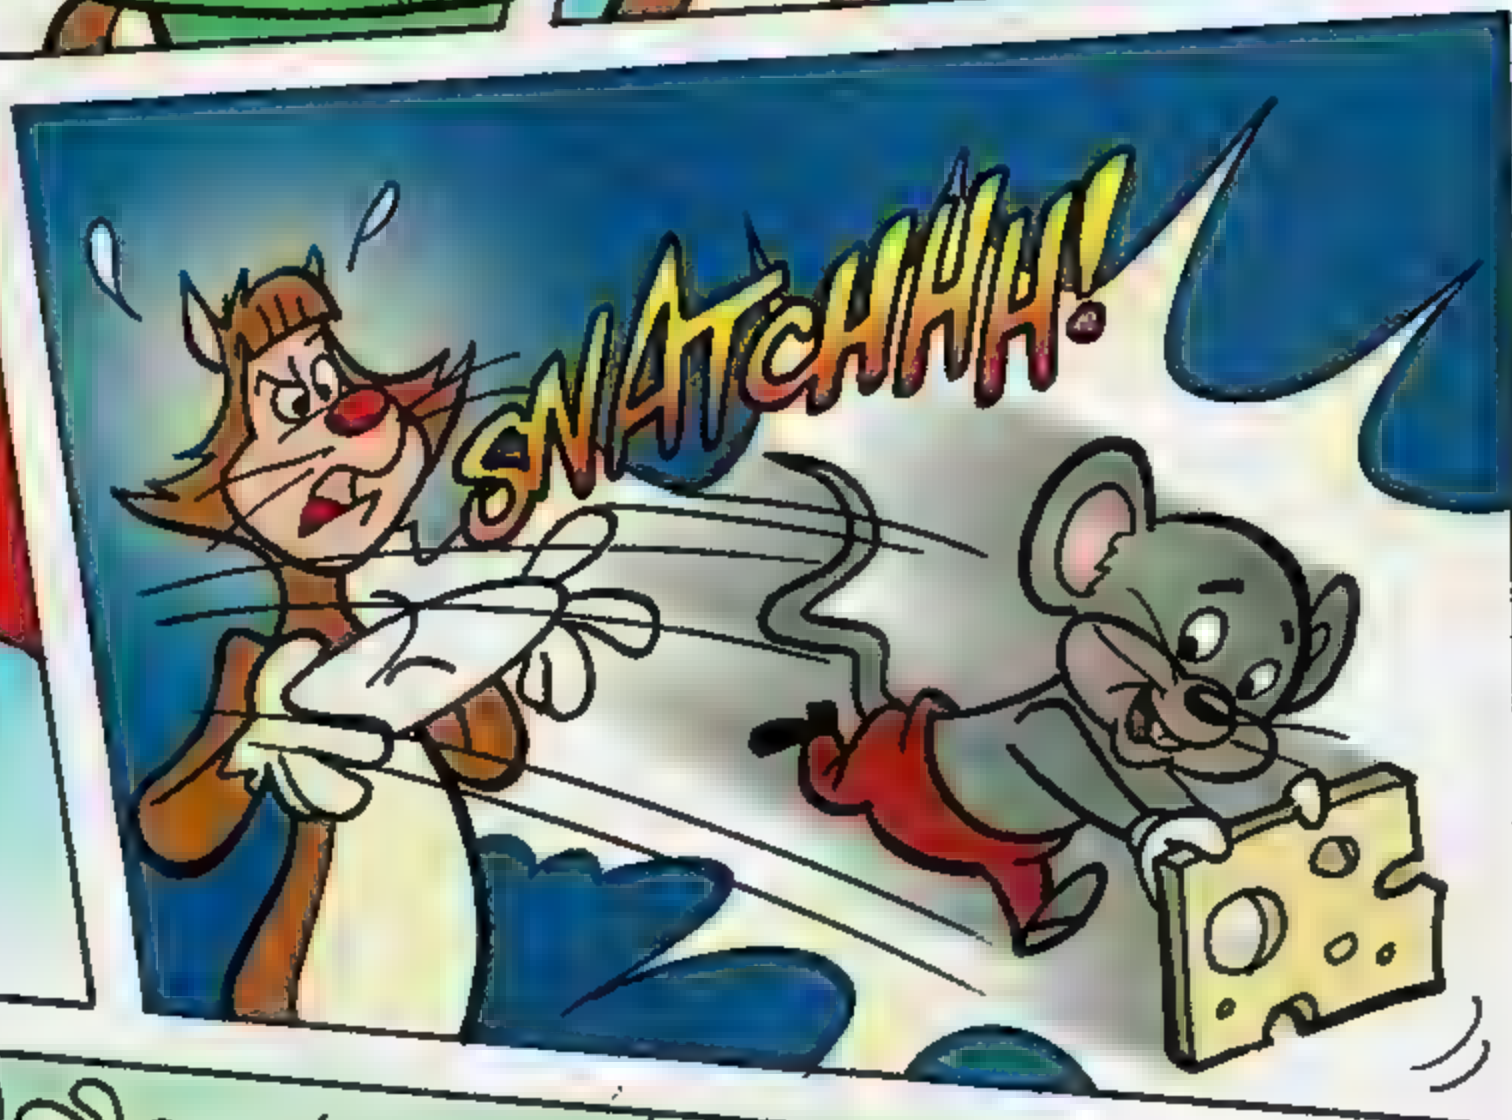

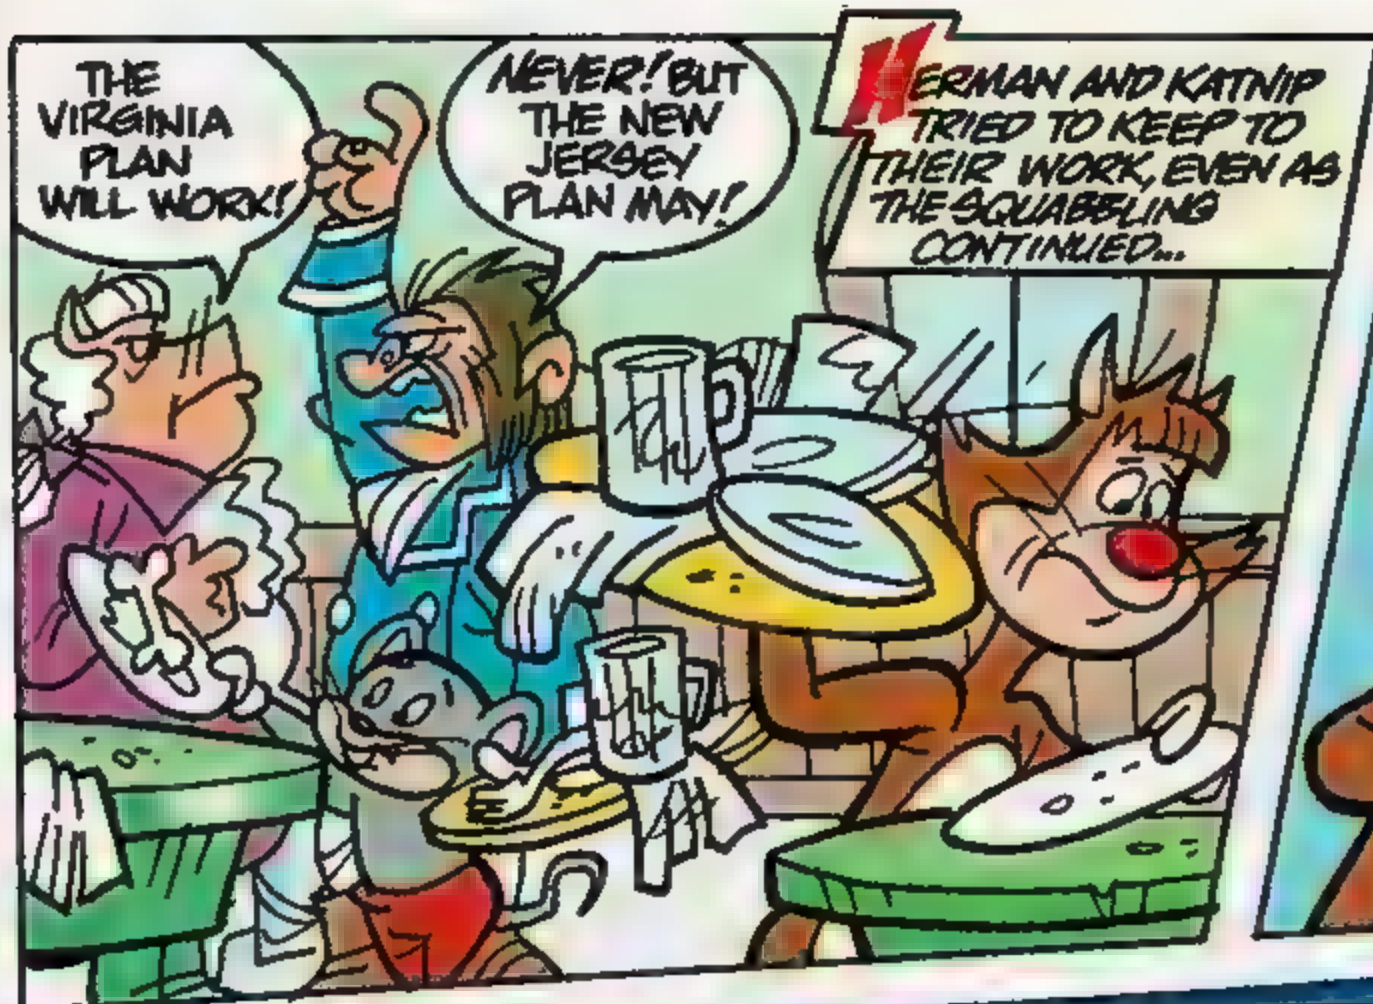

THERE WAS BICKERING ABOUT EVERY ISSUE...

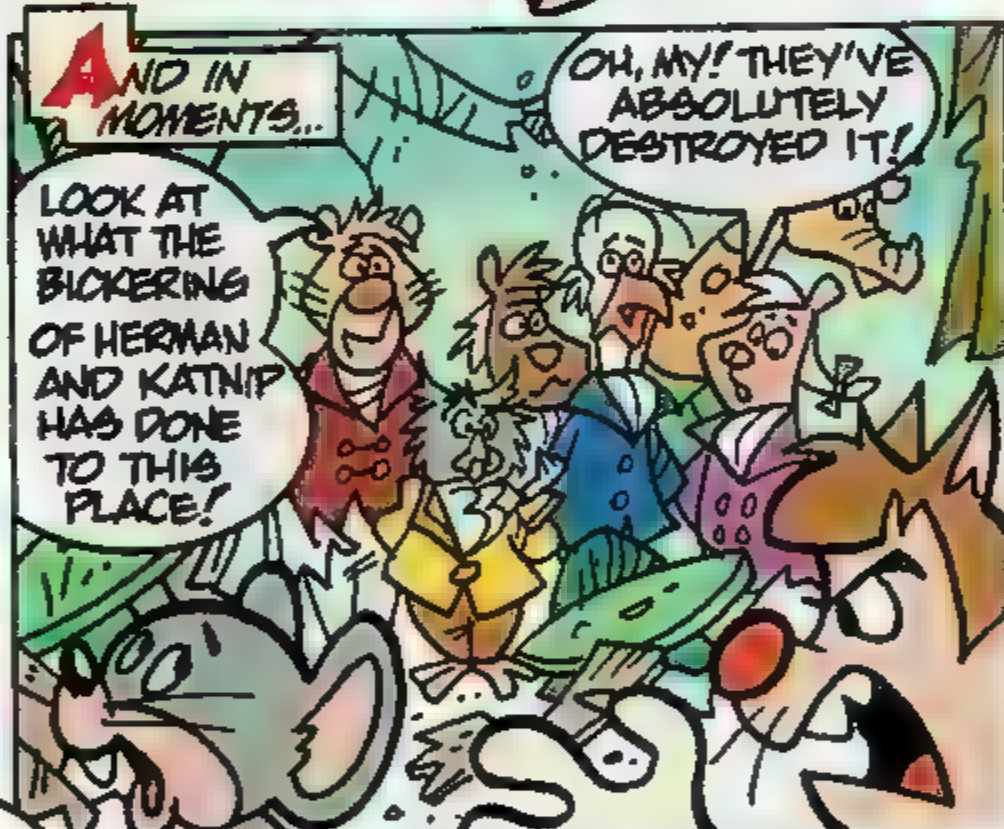

WE'RE NOT GETTING ANYWHERE! WE'RE SIMPLY STUCK BETWEEN TWO PLANS!

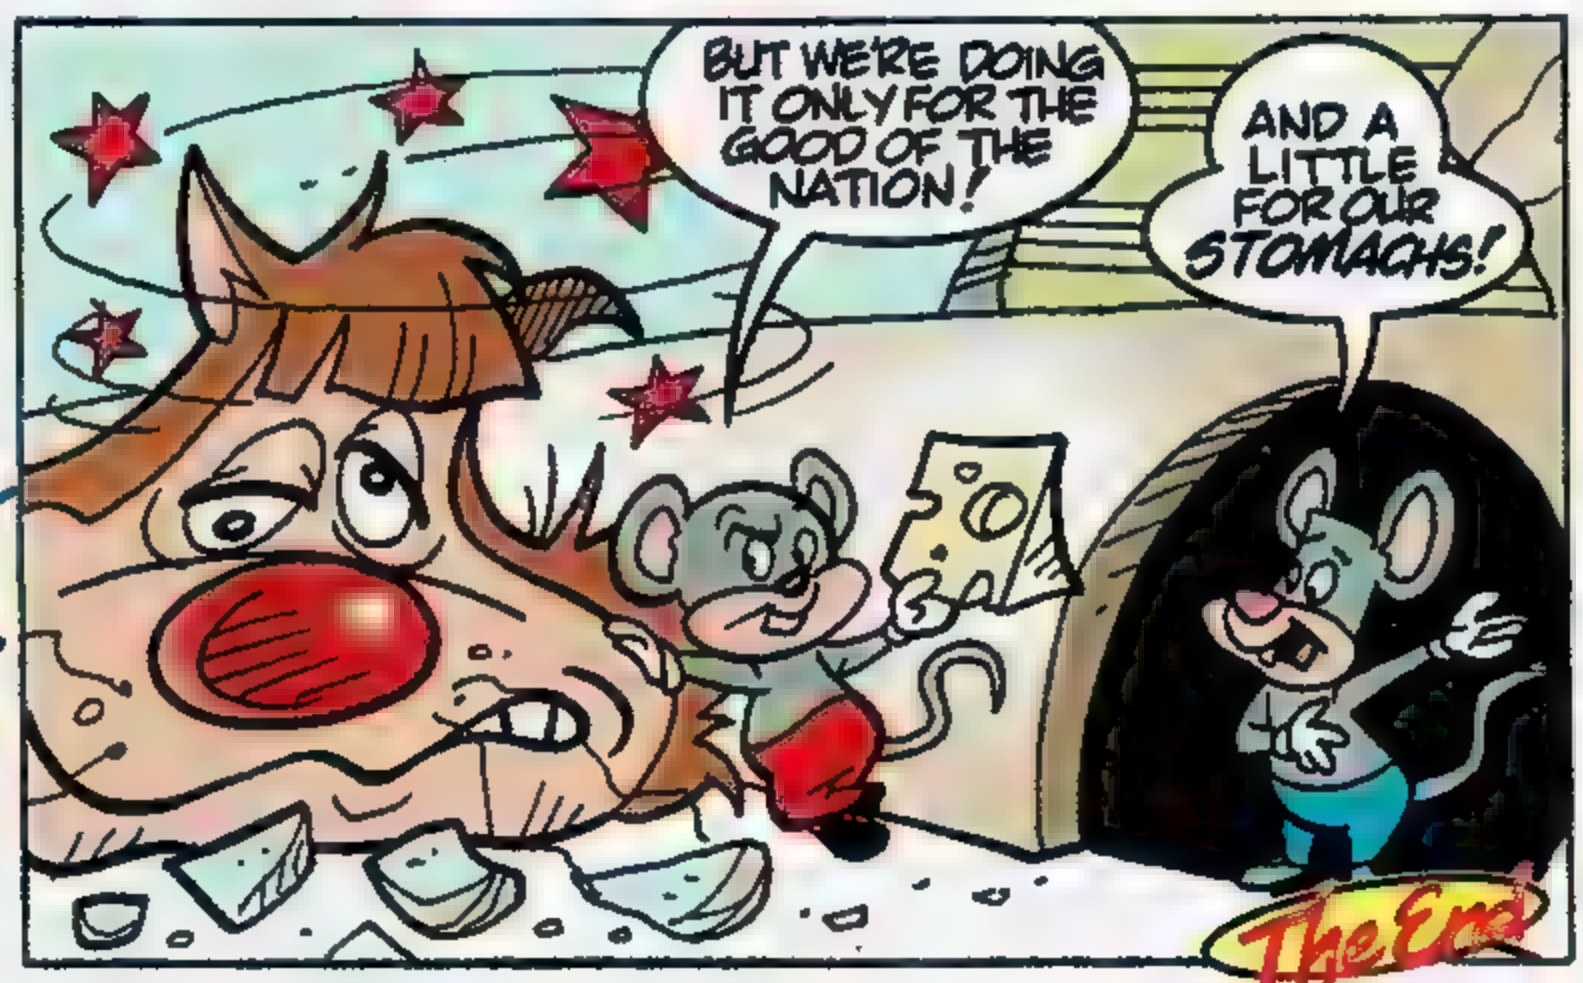

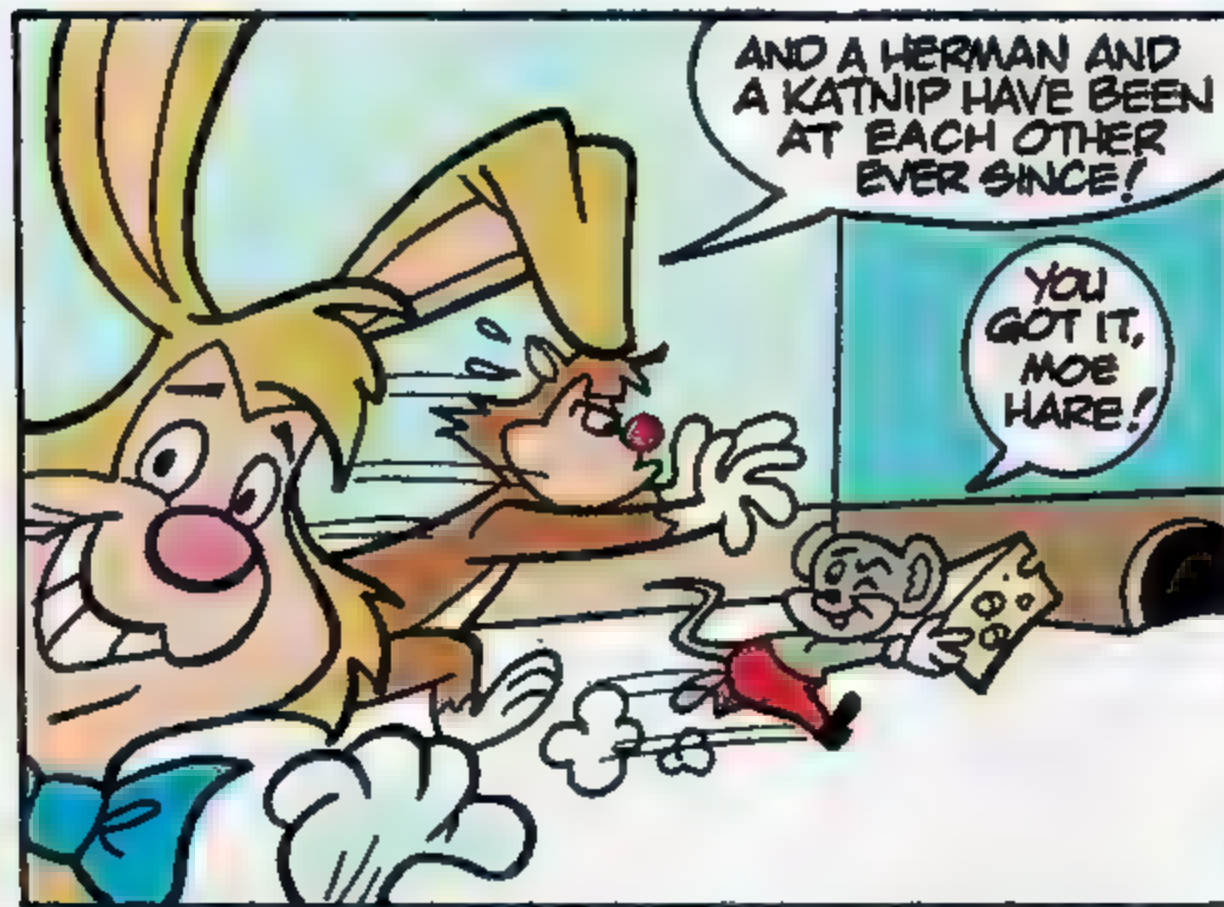

YES, THE VIRGINIA PLAN AND THE NEW JERSEY PLAN!

I LIKE THE PLAN OF THE VIRGINIANS! A TWO HOUSE LEGISLATURE SELECTED BY THE PEOPLE!

I LIKE THE PLAN FROM NEW JERSEY-- EACH STATE HAVING EQUAL REPRESENTATION!
